Jiôn Kiim | 김 지 영 (Busan, Korea, 1982) creates work that seems to occupy the space between language and the ineffable, shaping the realm of artistic gesture and its expression. Her practice is transdisciplinary, spanning a range of media, with drawing at its core, alongside painting, photography and installation. Often grounded in her immediate surroundings, her work moves between chance and intention, and between ambiguity and clarity, producing forms and gestures that reflect the conditions of contemporary life.
